THE AAHP/ABHP HAVE A NEW WEB SITE!

Kathy Pryor, AAHP President

The new AAHP/ABHP website is open for business! We have re-designed our website to include a variety of new features which improve data management for our membership. You can find the new website at: <https://aahp-abhp.org/> and you can log into the “Members Only” section of the website using the “log in” link at the upper right-hand corner of the blue banner.

Once you have logged in, clicking on the “My Account” link will provide an introduction to the members-only section of the new website. You can edit your directory information in this section (using the edit tab) and can check your membership status under “Your Member Overview,” as well as making payments to renew your membership through 31 December 2019.

Additional new features, such as online recertification management, will be added to the site early this year. Be on the look-out for emails and notifications which will provide more detail on how to navigate the site and utilize the new functionality.

As you explore our new website, we encourage you to provide comments and suggestions to our website committee (using the contact link at the bottom of each page) so that we can continue to improve the site for our membership.

ANNALS OF THE ICRP AVAILABLE AT NO COST

In celebration of the 90th anniversary of the International Commission on Radiological Protection (ICRP), the ICRP has embarked on a campaign to “Free the Annals.” This campaign seeks to raise 500K Euros (approximately $580K) to provide free electronic access, with the exclusion of the most recent two years. The AAHP has made a donation to the campaign, and in return members now have one-year of full access to the annals (including the last two years).

The annals are available for download to members at: <https://aahp-abhp.org/>. To access them, simply log into the “Members Only” section of the AAHP website. The link to the ICRP Annals is on the left-hand side of the “Members Only page”. This link will take you to the Sage Journals webpage, and the ICRP Annals may be accessed and downloaded to your computer via the “All PDF Issues” button.

After the first year of full access has concluded, and if the ICRP is successful in raising the required amount, Academy members will be able to continue to access the annals (with the exception of the two most recent years).
